SEND GAS TO THE BEACHES

Plant at Santa Ana to Have Mains Reaching as Far as Balboa

W. A. White Makes Interesting Announcement of the Company's Plans

Huntington Beach News: W. A. White of Whittier was in Huntington Beach, Saturday, and advised the News that the Southern Counties Gas Company, of which he is assistant general manager, is about to extend its high pressure gas main from Santa Ana, by way of Garden Grove, to Huntington Beach, Newport and Balboa. Mr. White stated that it has been a part of his company's plans to include Huntington Beach in its distributing system. He stated further that high pressure gas distribution afforded means by which such places as Huntington Beach, where, while gas was needed, the available business would hardly warrant the installing of a separate generating plant, could be economically supplied, with a much better service than would be possible under local plant conditions.

The Southern Counties Gas Company recently acquired the plant at Santa Ana, which has been greatly enlarged, improved and modernized in every particular, until it is now large enough to supply a big population. The high pressure mains have been extended to Orange, Anaheim and Fullerton, where the small plants have been shut down, and the consumers supplied with the gas generated in the large plant at Santa Ana and distributed by high pressure—an ideal method. The pressure at each meter is kept constant by means of automatic, individual regulators, connected with the service pipe just before the gas enters the meter, and set at whatever pressure is desired by the consumer. Notwithstanding the fact that the pressure may vary in the main distributing system, the house pressure is always uniform. This uniform pressure makes it possible to use gas with more economy than under the varying pressures furnished by local low-pressure systems. The quality of the gas under high pressure is also much better, the compressors at the plant eliminating all by-products and moisture, so that the gas delivered to the consumer is pure gas of high candle power and heat units.

Mr. White was here again Tuesday afternoon and assured the News that immediate steps are to be taken to begin work on the laying of pipes from the company's main, one mile west of Anaheim, by way of Garden Grove and Westminster, to Huntington Beach.

JOHNSON RANCH IS SOLD TO IOWAN

Orange News: A real estate deal of unusual proportions was negotiated yesterday afternoon with the sale of the O. J. Johnson ranch, north of McPherson, to Mr. Henry Varley, an Iowa capitalist. The Fernald & Weiss Realty Co. of this city were agents in the transfer.

The ranch, consisting of 18½ acres of fine orange orchards, half navel and half Valencia, was sold for $28,000. The new owner, who is reputed to be worth close to half a million, has been looking over property in this vicinity for a month, since his arrival from Shenandoah, Iowa. He wasted no time in closing the deal, when the offer was put to him. His son will manage the ranch, and is expected with his family in about a week.

Mr. Johnson will remain on the ranch for a month. He is contemplating investing in city property, and will move to Orange or Santa Ana.

TETZLAFF TELLS OF FIAT'S SMASH-UP

Orange News: A broken steering gear cost Teddy Tetzlaff his chance to win the Phoenix road race and came near ending his career as the nerviest driver in professional racing.

It came a hairline near ending the existence of his Italian mechanic, Felix Magone. The great Fiat, its wheels in the air, was slowly settling upon the chest of the hapless mechanic; the awful weight had already crushed and dislocated his shoulder, and was pressing in upon his chest; his life hung in the balance and the balance trembled; but a half dozen spectators arrived on the instant that spelled life or death to Magone, and lifted the wrecked giant from his body. The Italian will never have a closer acquaintance with death and evade the embrace.

Tetzlaff passed through last evening on his way to Los Angeles, returning with his wife and his sister, Mrs. N. T. Edwards. His ankle is in a plaster cast and his face is battered but he declares that he will drive in the Savannah races, for which he was to leave Phoenix immediately after his arrival. His friends doubt that he will be able to enter his car for some time, but he insists that his injury is slight. He tells of the accident as follows:

"The Fiat was rolling out of San Diego hot upon the trail of the National. Tetzlaff knew that he was within a half minute of his rival, which had been delayed several minutes in San Diego. He knew also that his steering gear was wrong, as he had found it did not respond well to the wheel in making a turn out of the city. But the road was good; he was upon the wheels of the foe, and daylight was at hand, when it would be much less trouble to make a repair.

Magone sat with Tetzlaff's watch in his hand. It was the $300 watch that the Lozier company had given him, and which he prized above all watches. The Fiat was turning about sixty miles of Camino Real under wheel that hour. It seemed that Racer Number 13 must soon show its heels to the pack. The minute hand pointed to 3:23, and the result was inevitable. The conjunction of 13, 23, and a bum steering gear with a turn in the road produced its legitimate fruit. The big Fiat disintegrated the beaten path and fared straight for a telephone pole. The pole gave way respectably, but the car turned over wearily. Tetzlaff and the watch projected themselves into the lemon orchard, and the driver landed in soft dirt. Poor Magone fell under the car.

He had time for one faint call before his breath left his body. "Jack up the car, leady," he said.

Tetzlaff dragged himself to the car and lifted in vain. The jack was under the machine. Then he awoke the echoes with frantic and effective yells for help. It came soon, for a knot of spectators of the race were a short distance away, but it came not a moment too soon for Magone.

The watch never reappeared, probably having followed the lamps, seats and everything movable that could be stripped from the car, and which fell into souvenir hunters' hands.

Magone is still in bed at Lemon Grove, but his injuries are not of a permanent character.

ALL YOU NEED IS A CASCARET TONIGHT

No Sick Headache, Bilious Stomach,
Coated Tongue Or Constipated
Bowels By Morning

—Turn the rascals out—the headache, the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out of the system all the decomposed waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

FEED CATTLE ON BEET TOPS

Herds Chewing the Remains of the Crop—Borchard
to Plant Beans

Huntington Beach News: Big herds of cattle are now being fed in the country surrounding Huntington Beach, on sugar beet tops. Besides the Patterson and Gates cattle near the Holly sugar factory, J. Kruopp of Oxnard has a herd of a thousand at Bushard's, and other large herds are scattered through the valley. Mr. Kruopp was here this week and registered at the Huntington Inn. It is estimated that fully ten thousand cattle are now being nourished on the succulent beet tops within a radius of seven miles of this city.

Leo Borchard and other large ranchers of this section expect to harvest big crops of lima beans next season. Mr. Borchard will have four hundred acres planted to beans. George Bushard will have eighty acres, and other acreage already allotted to the vegetable will, it is said, bring the total to more than fifteen hundred acres. The increased bean acreage will result in a decreased acreage of sugar beets. The high price of beans now prevailing has induced ranchers to plant them this year more extensively.

The pier committee of the Board of Trade met Friday evening at the office of Chairman Thomas B. Talbert, and, as a result of its deliberations, and, as a result of its deliberations, went to Santa Monica during the week and engaged the services of City Engineer James of that city to make the necessary preliminary investigation for ascertaining the probable cost of a reinforced concrete pier, or the dimensions heretofore stated in these columns. Mr. James arrived Thursday and began his work, the result of which will be submitted to the committee in a few days and later to the Board of Trade. His expenses and services will be paid by that organization.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY WANTS FENCE AWAY

ANAHEIM, Nov. 9.—The Board of Directors of the Anaheim Union Water Company met in regular session on Saturday, Nov. 4. Members present were Crowther, Bradford, Drake, Hale Dyer and Sherwood.

A communication was received from K. B. Norswing, making complaint regarding length of time required to get the water to his property, necessitating irrigating into the night, when the full run of water is used. The secretary was instructed to advise Mr. Norswing that the board would have plans under consideration to improve ditches, which will materially aid in the delivery of the water.

A communication was received from District Attorney L. A. West, requesting that a fence be removed which had been constructed across a road leading to the property of Mrs. Olive Gray, at the southwest corner of section 18. The matter was referred to the superintendent.

The special committee appointed to investigate proposed locations for a pumping plant on the Anaheim ditch recommended that a well be put down near the inlet ditch to the Yorba Reservoir, south of the reservoir dam, which would permit pumping day and night and the night water turned into the reservoir. It was moved by Drake, seconded by Dyer, that the report of the special committee be accepted and that the pumping plant committee be hereby instructed to commence work immediately on a 16 inch well at the place recommended. The motion carried.

Director Sherwood reported on the proposed construction of a reservoir at pumping plant No. 2 and pipe line to convey water to Hansen's corner. A motion was carried that the board meet at the pumping plant as a committee of the whole on Wednesday, the 8th inst., to decide upon the location of the reservoir and the pipe line.

Director Bradford reported that a committee of the whole had met at the N. B. ditch at McFadden's, and that work had been done to temporarily prevent damage to property by leakage. The committee had instructed the ditch committee to have further work done when the water is out of the ditch, namely—to break out the bottom of the ditch which is in bad condition, and re-construct same to an even grade. On motion of Hale, the foregoing report was accepted and action of the committee approved.

POMONA BEGINS WORK ON ARTISTIC CITY HALL PARK

POMONA, Nov. 10.—A crew of graders under direction of City Park Superintendent Paige commenced yesterday morning the work of creating the park on the new city hall grounds. Nearly a mile of steel water piping will be used in the construction of the system of underground water sprinklers, by means of which the park will be watered, no hose being required. Superintendent Paige has planned an artistic arrangement of the grounds, broad lawns being a feature. Winding walks will be constructed, and a large amount of rare shrubbery and shade trees will be planted.

HALF DOZEN CARS OF CELERY SHIPPED

Estimated That Association
Crop Will Be About 1000
Carloads

Huntington Beach News: This week marks the beginning of the celery season, and according to W. E. Gerhart, local manager for the California Vegetable Union, everything augurs well for a successful season. Celery is now being quoted at 25c, f.o.b. California, with not enough on hand ready for cutting to supply the demand. About a half dozen cars have gone forward already to Middle Western and coast points. Mr. Gerhart estimates the crop to run in the neighborhood of about 1000 cars. Shipments will commence in earnest about the middle of this month.

George W. Moore, as manager of the Celery Growers' Association, has made his appointments for the season as follows: Chas. E. Ward, field superintendent; W. H. Bentley, Eastern representative; B. R. Gerhart, Los Angeles salesman; Donald McMillan, head carloader at Smeltzer, while Arthur Mallett and Jack Ferguson will act in a similar capacity at Wintersburg and La Balsa respectively.

Abe Gans has again taken up his duties as bookkeeper for the Celery Growers' Association, after having served as weighmaster for the Anaheim Sugar Company, at Westminster, during the past summer. He will also act as assistant to Chas. C. Johnson, secretary of the Smeltzer Home Telephone Company.

What Other Southern California Cities and Towns Are Doing In the Way of Building Polytechnic High Schools

Riverside

For the Riverside boys' polytechnic high school group, bonds in the sum of $250,000 were voted, the amount to provide for equipment as well as another grammar school building. It is expected that the work on some of the buildings will be far enough along by January 1 to admit of the boys leaving the present high school building, which will be known thereafter as the girls' high school. The central building is the administration building, the one on the left the hall of science, that on the right the hall of commerce, and the larger one at the rear the shop building. The smaller structure is the power house. The site comprises several acres on the south bank of the Arroyo Terquesquite.

REMARKABLE ERA OF BUILDING POLYTECHNIC HIGH SCHOOLS IS ON

Work Under Way In Southern California at the Present Time---Something of the Purposes of the Polytechnic School.

Particular interest attaches just now to polytechnic high school work in Southern California, for the reason that there are being erected on all hands magnificent groups of buildings for this purpose, and plans are being drawn for more monuments of the same character to the cause of education. There is presented in connection with this article on polytechnic education an illustration of the Riverside group, which is now nearing completion. In view of the fact that Santa Ana is entering upon a campaign for polytechnic high school bonds, the following extracts from an article appearing in the Pasadena Star by J. O. Barnwell will be of interest:

If you were asked, what, in Pasadena, at the present time, is of greater interest than a new waterworks system, the completion of the Arroyo bridge, or any other one of a dozen and one important things, your answer would be, or ought to be, the kind of work which will be given, one year or two years from now, in the workshops of the new Pasadena polytechnic high school.

One group, just now receiving the maximum of attention from all who are attempting to write the proper prescription for the cure of the ailments of the general industrial situation, has not been mentioned at all as affecting the Pasadena situation. This group consists of those boys or girls who want to be fitted for the skilled trades. It would not be far wrong to say that in Pasadena this group is small enough to be of least importance. However, conditions are such in Pasadena and the coast cities generally, that even if no special provision is made for those who are determined to enter the trades they can, by taking the general courses which scientific and industrial departments will have to offer, get into the trades easily, and besides making quite rapid progress in the technique of the trade selected, are apt to get farther ahead ultimately than if they had confined themselves to a strictly trade education.

Why this is so here, and not in the manufacturing east, is a long story, but the chief reasons are because in the west the shops are more loosely organized, the requirements for accuracy are less rigid, and there is far less specialization in manufacturing. This makes it possible for anyone with a polytechnic high school education to have a place made for him in the shops. Any one possessed of such an education, a natural aptitude for practical engineering, and a four-years' course of general shop work, can get a start in a trade if he wants it.

Will Prepare for Life
The new school then, will not be a trade school, though one may successfully get the foundation of some of the trades there if this is desired. The new school will rather, as the stock phrase is, "prepare for life," or, as it is rather more fashionable to say at the present time, it will be life. That is, as nearly as possible conditions outside; things will be done as they are done in everyday life, but one important difference often overlooked, is that in school, time will be given to learn principles.

In life there is never time for anything but the day's work. If something comes up in the day's work which makes it necessary to learn the principles involved, no time will be given for this purpose. Instead, you will probably lose your job. It is therefore only partly true that school work is life work, but it should be true that the school deals with the subjects most useful in life.

Teaching Pupils to Think

There is one other thing which might be mentioned as of importance when planning shop courses. No work should be given which is of so difficult a nature that in order to get results, all the planning has to be done by the teacher and all the work by some machine. In such a case the student learns nothing but to become the servant of the teacher and the slave of the machine. Work done under these conditions may show beautifully, and teacher and pupil might be inordinately proud of it, but if the pupil has not learned to think and do for himself, it all amounts to nothing.

Of course, too much cannot be left to the untrained pupil. If the work is made so difficult as to make it apparent from the first that the final product will be an unsightly botch, the pupil will lose interest. To select work just hard enough is the hardest problem any teacher has.

"Garden Variety" of Men

A second group mentioned was composed of individuals who for one reason or another are strongly interested in machinery. By all means teach them what is useful to them, but do not forget that all useful knowledge is not contained in books about machinery.

A third group was said to be composed of ordinary men—the common or garden variety of man. To teach this man foundry work is more foolish than to give the girls in the sewing classes a year's work in sailmaking or gas balloon construction. More foolish, because in sailmaking the girl is using a needle, while, if we except the shovel, the boy in the foundry never uses any tool in any way which he will ever use it again, nor will the information he gains ever be used again, except under extraordinary circumstances.

The ordinary man wants to know how to buy a good house, good furniture, good pictures, good china, good electric fixtures; how to get good service from bricklayers, cement workers, hardware merchants, plumbers and carpenters. He wants to know how to execute small repairs around his house, and what to do in case of an emergency. If a window cord breaks in his house it will cost one or two dollars to have it repaired. A

APARTMENT HOUSE; $9000

Work Started on 34-Room Structure for Fowler on Ross Street

Contracts have been let and work was started this week on the erection for Nelson Fowler of a two and one-half story and basement apartment house on Ross street, between Second and Third, just south of the apartment house now being erected by Mrs. Carrie S. Bent. The building is to have thirty-four rooms and will cost about $9000.

The building will be the handsomest of its kind in the city, and besides presenting a very attractive appearance will be fitted with all the latest appliances for convenience and comfort. It is to be divided into two, three and four room apartments. The basement is to be fitted up in pleasant rooms for the benefit of the tenants, containing a pool table and other amusement features.

Contractor E. D. Johnson this week started work on a seven-room frame bungalow for H. C. Head at 409 Hickley street, which will be occupied by the owner when completed. The plans call for a building which will be of striking appearance and in interior finish will be complete and homelike. It will cost about $2500.

Contractor A. C. Black this week started work on a pretty four-room bungalow for Thomas Trickey at 308 West Chestnut. It is to cost $700 and is being erected in response to the strong existing demand for small rental houses.

FINE HOTEL FOR CORONA

CORONA, Nov. 10.—Two important real estate deals just closed will mean much for the future of Corona if the plans of the new owners are carried out.

W. H. Jameson has purchased of Dr. M. B. Huff the southwest corner of Sixth and Washburn streets, a full quarter of a block, 150x150 feet, for $11,000.

It is Mr. Jameson's intention to erect on this property a modern fire-proof hotel to cost between $40,000 and $50,000. The same gentleman has also purchased from J. T. Burton lots at the southeast corner of Sixth and Washburn streets, 125 feet on Sixth street by 100 on Washburn, on which he intends to build a modern business block. The consideration was $12,500.

BUILDING PERMITS

Building permits issued during the past week indicate a continued healthy activity in the building situation. No large permits were granted, but the starting of new and substantial residences gives their hands full at present, which is possibly a reason why the permits do not show a larger figure.

Permits for the week up to last night totaled $10,945, making the total for November to date $14,995. With but a third of the month gone and some extensive operations about to be started, it is apparent that November will run far ahead of the same month last year.

Permits issued since last report were:

J. W. Inman, owner and builder; frame addition to shop, 614 West Fourth, $30.

S. H. Pendleton Co., owner, E. D. Johnson, builder; 2-story frame shed, 917 East Fifth, $200.

FINE BUILDING IS PLANNED

Five-Story Office Structure Considered By West End Improvement Co.

That a five-story, modern fire-proof office building be erected at the corner of Fourth and Birch streets by the West End Improvement Co., is a project which has been under consideration by the stockholders of the company for some time, and the president, F. P. Nickey, says that so much encouragement has been given the project that he believes its success may be taken as assured.

It is the idea of the company to erect a five-story building, of which the four upper floors would be devoted entirely to offices. The first floor would be used for commercial purposes, and the project now hinges on the securing of a desirable tenant for that floor. Negotiations to that end are now in progress and that they will be successful sooner or later may be taken as certain.

It is planned to erect the building of concrete, and make it entirely fire-proof. The building would have all the modern conveniences for office tenantry, something that no building in the city affords at present. Mr. Nickey said that he had talked casually with a number of men in various professions now occupying offices, and that they were enthusiastically in favor of the project. There is no question that such a building would be a tremendous asset to the city, and that there is need of an up-to-date office building in the city is equally apparent.

ANOTHER ORANGE GROVE SOLD
N. J. Warner and Shelley Horton of Santa Ana have bought 23½ acres of Valencia oranges 4 years old on Collins avenue near Orange, of Robert Henderson of Riverside. Consideration about $20,000. The deal was made through the firm of Wells & Warner.

STATE'S WOMEN TO ORGANIZE FOR POLITICAL ADVANCEMENT

Woman's Progressive League Perfects Plans for Launching Movement for Instruction in Government, Consideration of Candidates and Initiation of Legislation

TO THE WOMEN OF CALIFORNIA:

The Woman's Progressive League of California announces itself as a permanent organization formed for the purpose of educating women in the principles of government and citizenship, the consideration of proposed candidates and for initiating legislation, especially that affecting women and children.

The Woman's Progressive League invites the affiliation of every woman in California who wishes to further and develop this work.

A meeting will be held in Los Angeles, Jan. 10, 1912, at which delegates from every section of the state will be present.

WOMAN'S PROGRESSIVE LEAGUE.

MRS. GEORGE L. COLE, President.
MRS. FRANK A. GIBSON, Vice-Pres.
MRS. OLIVER P. CLARK, Secretary.
MRS. C. H. KYSOR, Treasurer.
MRS. DAVID C. M. McCAN,
MRS. JOHN D. HOOKER,
MRS. OLIVER C. BRYANT,
MRS. GEORGE H. WADLEIGH,
MRS. GEORGE A. BARRY,
MRS. FRED W. WOOD,
MRS. R. L. CRAIG.

Final arrangements have been made by the directors of the Woman's Progressive League of California for the launching of a state organization having as its purpose the instruction of women of California in the principles of government, the consideration of proposed candidates and the initiation of legislation, particularly that affecting the women and children of the state.

At a meeting of the directors in the headquarters in the Merchant Trust building this morning plans of organization were perfected and the decision made to issue a call for a meeting to be held in Los Angeles Wednesday, Jan. 10, 1912, at which plans for the extension of the movement into every county in the state will be considered.

This action on the part of the league, which already has a membership of 3000, was prompted by the urgent demands of women in all parts of the state for a central, representative organization through which they intelligently may participate in all matters of government and wisely discharge the duties of citizenship they have so recently assumed; an organization which shall be representative of the highest ideals in government and one that shall be in a position to take a definite stand on all questions concerning the welfare of the citizens of California.

There will be no membership dues and all women having at heart the progressive principles of government for which the league stands will be welcomed to the ranks.

Women identified with the movement in Los Angeles are those who stand for the best element in the community and who are thoroughly imbued with the spirit of the undertaking. Plans of organization, which have been under consideration for many months, provide for a statewide movement that shall take up the problems of government in its various phases along the broadest possible lines.

The work the league is doing for the re-election of Mayor George Alexander and the perpetuation of a clean city government such as Los Angeles has enjoyed during the Alexander administration, has proven its splendid capacity for participation in municipal affairs and convinced the community that there is need for a state organization built on the same strong lines.

DETINUE BOOK IS NOT LEGAL VOLUME

Practice Complained of, Thus Calling Attention to Pernicious System

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—The Detinue book, so frequently used in municipal prisons to conceal the arrest of persons suspected of crime until such time as the arresting authorities can determine what charge to place against them, is unlawful. This admission was made in a settlement of a $25,000 damage suit brought in the United States Circuit Court by Howard Cooley against former Chief of Police John B. Martin and his bondsmen for illegal detention. Cooley has been paid an amount satisfactory to him by Martin's surety, and, in consideration, has dismissed his action for financial redress.

Under the Detinue system, practiced here and in other cities, prisoners are held incommunicado at the pleasure of the police. In many instances, even the arrest is kept secret and no entry is made on the prison register, which the law says must always be open for inspection.

Cooley was arrested here in May, 1910, after he had been pointed out to two policemen as an associate of a murderer wanted in Chehalis, Wash. After being taken to the city prison, he was placed in solitary confinement and no word of his arrest was allowed to leak out. At the end of seventeen days, he was discharged.

He brought suit for $25,000 damages against Martin, alleging that he had been denied the right of a habeas corpus hearing, which guarantees that every man or woman arrested shall be taken immediately before a magistrate.

The Detinue system has been practically abandoned by the local police since the filing of the Cooley suit.

TO BE READY FOR USE SOON

Orange News: The sewer system will be ready for use some time next week, according to present calculations. Inspection will be made, and the sewer either accepted or rejected by the trustees the last part of this week. If accepted, there will be nothing in the way of users coupling on and disposing of their sewage in approved sanitary fashion.

Before the sewer is inspected the water connections to flush tanks must be made, and the flush tanks tested. This, the water superintendent says, can be done the last of this week or first of next.

The sewer system will be completed and ready for inspection by Wednesday of this week at the latest," states Mr. Partlow, representative of the California Ornamental Brick Company, who is in charge of the work.

The digging is all done and the pipe is laid, but some of the back-filling—that is, the returning of the dirt to the trenches, has not been finished, and some of the manholes are not complete.

"You will have a good sewer that cost you less money than any town in California ever paid for the like," declares the contractor.

The annual meeting of stockholders of the Santiago Or. & Growers' Association and the annual banquet to the packing house employees will be held next Wednesday at the packing house. The packing house has been selected for the location of the event as best suited for the purpose. Preparations are already under way for the banquet arrangements.

The case of Billingsley vs. Codding came up for its second hearing in Justice Fullerton's court Thursday. Both morning and afternoon sessions were taken up with the case, without bringing it to an end, and it was finally laid over to a later date.

The defense finished its case and two witnesses were introduced for rebuttal by the prosecution before court was adjourned. The date of the next hearing to be decided upon by the attorneys at their convenience.

E. Estello, a Mexican walnut picker, has been given a sentence of thirty days in the county jail, as a future all to his ability in distinguishing his own walnuts from those belonging to someone else. Judgment was passed on his case by Justice James Fullerton this morning.

Estello was arrested last evening on the ranch of the Guthrie estate, where he and his family are tented, on the back part of the place. The barking of a dog in the evening attracted the attention of Foreman

YOU CAN BE WELL

Bounding health is your right—and you can have it—if you go about building up your system in a common-sense way. When one organ is run down, the whole system is thrown out of harmony, and chronic disorders, such as constipation, liver, kidney and stomach troubles, catarrh, rheumatism, female complaints, nervous weakness and general debility—quickly manifest themselves.

Another "Largest in the World" for California

On the outskirts of the city of Sacramento, California, the Southern Pacific Company is erecting a steel bridge across the Sacramento river that contains the heaviest swing span of any bridge in the world. This span is 400 feet in length and its weight is 6,300,000 pounds. The entire bridge, however, will weigh more than 10,000,000 pounds when it has all been placed in position upon the heavy concrete piers.

There are only two steel bridges in the world that have swing spans that exceed the new Sacramento river bridge in length. One is across the Willamette river and is a part of the Spokane, Portland and Seattle railway system. Its weight, however, is only 5,400,000 pounds, 800,000 pounds less than that of the Sacramento river bridge. The Omaha Terminal Company operates a large steel bridge across the Missouri river that has a swing span 520 feet in length, but the steel is of much lighter construction, the weight being only 5,100,000 pounds.

The new Sacramento river bridge of the Southern Pacific is a part of the double tracking of the Harriman lines. It will contain not only two tracks for the trains but a concrete wagon and automobile road. The American bridge company, which is fabricating the steel work for the structure, have records of numerous heavy swing spans but none that can equal that of the new Southern Pacific bridge.

The piers for this structure were sunk by the pneumatic process under the direction of the Southern Pacific engineers, and the construction of the abutments, as well as the erection of all of the steel superstructure, is being done by the company's engineering forces.

which was loaded with sacks of nuts. Field, who, going out of the house, discovered Estello making off with a sack of walnuts on his shoulder. Estello dropped his burden and fled to his tent, where Field and Constable G. L. Jackson later followed him. Estello was taken into custody and tried and sentenced this morning, with Fenn B. Field as the complaining witness.

While putting Estello under arrest, Field and Jackson noticed the presence of another Mexican in a buggy,

These they believe to have also been stolen and they took particular note of the driver and his outfit, for reference in case other thefts are reported. It seems to be the custom for certain of this kind to go the rounds of their friends among the walnut pickers and obtain their assistance in securing the nuts, all sharing in the loot. It is thought that this plan was being carried out last night by the walnut picker and his caller. Estello was much under the influence of liquor when arrested.

Little knowledge will enable the house-owner to fix it himself and save this money. Besides, is anything more wasteful of the community's time than to have expert workmen chasing around all the time on the street cars putting in sash cords, rewiring fixtures, or driving an extra tack into the linoleum in the bathroom?

Courses for Girls
And what will the girls study? Cooking and sewing, yes, and millinery. This completes the necessary list, in the opinion of many. Well, it should be remembered that every woman is no more born to be a housekeeper than every man is to be a bookkeeper. Of course, most women have to be housekeepers and for this reason those least apt by nature need the most instruction, but the house is not all kitchen, and clothes and hats not the chief aim of woman's existence.

For these, and many other reasons, girls need to study house furniture, builders' hardware, and general decorations. In fact, they need it as much as or more than the boys do, so that they will not be at the mercy of every manufacturer of cheap floor paint or tawdry bric-a-brac that happens to know how to advertise his goods. Besides, if the studies of experts are to be used as guides by us, sewing is really close work, reacting on the eyes and nerves of many people unwholesomely.

Shall all the girls of this nervous class be denied the privilege of learning by doing because nothing in the way of applied art but sewing is provided for them to do? Too much is provided for them to do? Too much emphasis is placed on sewing anyway. What we know about is what we are interested in, and if dress comprises a large part of a girl's education, she will take an undue interest in it. It is very important to teach a girl what to want, and not easier than to teach a boy the same thing.

The new high school ought to be large enough to include everything worth teaching young people, and that it will be is the best opinion of the writer.

Plans for the Buildings

Architect Norman P. Marsh has completed plans for Pasadena's new polytechnic high school, which will cost $500,000. The group of five buildings planned will give Pasadena one of the finest and most complete schools in the United States. The administration building will be two stories and basement, designed in the form of a letter E, with a frontage of 290 feet. There will be a two story wing at each end, 235 feet deep, to provide for the classical and commercial high schools. The central wing will contain an auditorium to seat 2000.

The domestic science and agriculture building will be duplicates in design and size, each being two stories and basement, 90x132 feet.

The mechanics building will be one story, 222x95 feet, with a mezzanine floor. The physical training building will be 174x82 feet, with boys' and girls' gymnasiums, each 60x80 feet, in the first story and choral hall to seat 400, with a banked chorus stage in the second story.

The construction of the physical training and mechanics buildings will be of concrete and frame. The three main buildings will be of class A construction with concrete, frame, brick walls, enameled brick facing, hollow tile partitions, reinforced tile floors, steam heat, etc.

No expense will be spared and many new ideas will be introduced to make the sanitary and mechanical equipment and appliances the most modern incorporated in any school in the country.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET

There was only a moderate volume of trade. The market was devoid of features. The general tone was firm. Receipts of staples were about in keeping with the demand.

The market was strong for fine new-laid eggs. Receipts of this description were light and occasional sales were reported at a premium over quotations. Supplies were largely of mixed held and eastern fresh stocks, which met with a good demand. Arrivals were sixty cases.

The butter market showed no important change and ruled firm to steady. Receipts of fancy creamery were light, and demand was sufficient to absorb their receipts of this description. Ladies were in good supply and steady. Receipts were 44,514 pounds.

Cheese arrivals were 20,745 pounds. The market was a shade easier, but prices showed no quotable change. There was no change in green fruit prices. There was a fair inquiry for choice lots of most descriptions and prices were generally well sustained under moderate receipts.

Apples continued to attract attention from prospective buyers and most varieties were in good call. Colorado Jonathans were best in call and good sound stock of this variety moved freely from $1.90 to $2.35 a four-box. Receipts were 18,066 boxes.

Grapes were in moderate receipt, but most of the stock was too soft to handle. Only fancy table grapes found a market and prices were fairly upheld. Cornichons, Tokays and Muscats sold from 90 cents to $1.10 a lug box.

Other fruits were in light call but no change in prices was noted.

BIGGEST THING SANTA ANA IS--DOING ADDING THE TOURIST TO ITS ASSETS

WALTER V. WOHLKE IN LOS ANGELES TRIBUNE

It is good to show a sturdy independence, to stand squarely upon one's own feet, asking favors of no one, especially when that self-reliance rests upon a broad basis of financial solidity. During the recent, now happily declining, fad of hanging up illustrated mottoes in every conceivable place, many a desk held down by a weatherworn, chinless, rubber-spined individual exhibited the figure of a scowling cowboy with a big gun. According to the inscription in the poster, the hero who held down the desk proposed to live in such a way that he could daily invite every man, the boss included, to visit the winter resort made famous by Danie. It's good to feel this. Unfortunately most of the buyers of profane posters did not feel thus. They were only trying to bolster up their courage.

Santa Ana might have hung the aforementioned motto over its gates, for Santa Ana is perhaps the most sturdy, independent, self-reliant community in Southern California. Santa Ana did not, however, invite the rest of the world to go hither or thither. Santa Ana simply exhibited a profound indifference in the doings of other communities. Santa Ana was sufficient unto itself, and if any city in the country had a right to be self-contained, that city was Santa Ana, capital of the county in which more than fifty-seven varieties of soil products flourish.

Sweetest County in Union
They used to slander Santa Ana in the early days. To the dry, warm north winds that drop over the mountains from the Nevada desert the other towns of Southern California applied the generic name of "Santa Anas." Conscious of the impregnability of its position, feeling absolute content with every phase of its climate and surroundings, feeling the force of the north wind less than most of its slanderers, Santa Ana never took the trouble to combat the slur. It pursued the even tenor of its way, undisturbed, complacently relying upon the fifty-seven varieties of its products to champion its cause.

Orange county, of which Santa Ana is the capital, is the sweetest county in the United States. Its five sugar factories, of which four are located in or around Santa, produce more beet sugar annually than any other county in the Union. From the great lands adjoining Santa Ana to the south comes the largest part of the nation's winter celery supply. Having furnished the relish that starts the Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners, Santa Ana and its surrounding territory also supply the largest part of the nuts that wind up the feasts, its oranges and grapes decorate the festive table. After these great occasions, when the country goes back to beans, Santa Ana comes to the fore with its limas, in the production of which Orange county runs Ventura a close race.

Remarkable Variety of Crops
These staple crops, however, are only a few of the truly remarkable variety of products that caused Santa Ana to look with complacency upon the antics of its competitors. Around Santa Ana the ranchers never put all their eggs into one basket. If walnuts, citrus fruits, beets or beans should yield a light crop, there were apricots, alfalfa and apples to help out. Following the alphabetical list of products, the farmers planted barley, berries, celery, corn, cabbage, cauliflower and crows; they went extensively into alligator pears, grains, hay, grapes, lemons, loquats, hens, onions, olives, oats, oranges, pears, potatoes and peanuts; they grew peas, peppers, poultry, wheat, wax, walnuts and honey, wool, wine and brandy.

It is no empty boast when Santa Ana asserts that every crop of the temperate and sub-tropical zones, including some of the tropical fruits, is grown commercially somewhere in its vicinity. It delivers the goods, delivers them every day in the year from its fields and farms. In all the numerous branches of the Pacific Electric system, none does a larger freight business than the Santa Ana line. Every night and all night the outgoing loaded cars rumble over the tracks, notwithstanding the heavy freight business on the two steam roads that traverse Santa Ana.

Every Day Is Harvest Day
No kind of wealth is steadier, more certain than the riches that come from the soil. Santa Ana is the center of a farming region which knows no dull season. Each one of the 365 days is a harvest day; every week some part of the land is paying a dividend to the owner. It is this diversity of production, this endless succession of crop money that has built up the independent, cosplacient community in Santa Ana.

Hundreds of ranchers who have made their pile built their residences in the city. Hundreds of others, still actively engaged in production, removed to Santa Ana and went to their ranches by automobile. Last week one of them came in from the ranch with the tonneau of his machine containing a towering pile of sacked walnuts. Another one, unwilling to soil the upholstered seats, loaded his farm wagon with the walnuts, hitched his motor car in front and thus transported his crop to the warehouse.

Now for the Tourists!
Santa Ana never made an effort to get a share of the tourist business. It was growing fast enough without it. The wants and needs of the old and of the new producers absorbed its entire attention. It went its own way, watching the stream of non-producers go to other places with untroubled eyes, fully and completely satisfied with the abundance of its varied products.

But of late a change is coming over the community. The old feeling of complete, unalloyed satisfaction with itself is vanishing. Santa Ana is discovering that it has overlooked some of its assets, allowed them to lie unused, unremunerative. It is just finding out that, in the beauty, attractiveness and diversity of its surroundings it has a magnet with a strong pulling power as the scenic environment of the other Southern California cities made world-famous by admiring tourists.

No matter where it is located, an orange grove exercises a peculiar fascination upon the tourist. To the east and north of Santa Ana, up against the foothills and canyons of the Temecula mountains, lies one of the finest citrus districts in the state, a district which so far has been an undiscovered country to the average tourist who follows the beaten path.

Charms for Home-seekers
Despite its immense proportions, the tourist business of Southern California is still far from the limit of its development. It is growing in importance every year, and every year a large portion of the visitors fail to go away again. They stay, selecting the place which has appealed to them most. In the district between the city and the foothills, in the shady drives between the groves of citrus fruits and wide-spreading walnuts, in the pink-and-white glory of its blossoming peach and apricot orchards, in the cool shadows of the sycamores that fill the wide canyons, Santa Ana has a bait for tourists that is just beginning to be exploited.

The drives among these groves and orchards, the vistas of mountains and sea that open up, the cozy homes that nestle among the trees, the climate that rests a mile deep over the ensemble, these assets Santa Ana is just beginning to take into consideration with a view to capitalizing them.

The new interest with which Santa Ana regards the transient traveler from the East is shown by the movement, recently started, to erect a modern, luxurious hotel, a movement in which the civic bodies of fourteen Orange county communities are taking part. This new interest of the Santa Anans also accounts, at least in part, for the determined efforts now being made to bring about an extension of the Pacific Electric's system into the territory north of Santa Ana. A right-of-way is to be obtained for a line extending north from Santa Ana through Orange, Anaheim and Fullerton to a connection with the La Habra line, which eventually is to be continued through Corona to Riverside.

Putting Best Foot Forward
With this new line in operation, Orange county's most attractive portion would be made accessible and familiar to the thousands of visitors who hitherto have confined their sightseeing to other parts. Santa Ana hitherto laid stress upon and emphasized the fact that its land offers remarkable opportunities for making money. Now Santa Ana is beginning to set forth the fact that it is likewise an excellent place in which to spend money, in which to obtain a large amount of comfort, of climate and scenery for a very small outlay.

The effects of this new attitude are distinctly noticeable. As if in preparation for the visitors, the solid old stores of the city have remodeled their establishments, built new and attractive fronts, put their best foot forward. Additional street improvements are contemplated, the city's municipal water plant is being enlarged, a large storage reservoir is being built to take care of the rapidly increasing demand of the new homes, and the construction of a costly polytechnic high school with elaborate equipment and large grounds is being urged in order to attract families by superior educational advantages.

Vast Tributary Wealth
Even in the architectural style of the new homes this changed outlook finds expression since the Santa Anans discovered that the surroundings which satisfied them so intensely would likewise find favor in the eyes of those seeking for a congenial community wherein to spend their money and make their home.

Approximately 30,000 tilled acres are directly tributary to Santa Ana. They have built a city of 10,000 population. Right at the back door of Santa Ana lies the largest undivided tract of land under individual ownership in Southern California, the San Joaquin Rancho, which covers a territory of a little more than 100,000 acres. Its principal products now are beans, barley and stock. When the 60,000 acres of this ranch capable of irrigation are subdivided into ten and twenty acre tracts, when they are producing lemons, oranges and other fifty-seven varieties of products under intensive cultivation, this tract alone would be sufficient to support Santa Ana if it had double its present population.

Santa Ana is just beginning to realize the greatness of the future before it. The preparation for this future is the best thing the community is accomplishing.
